“ Our families did not get to grow up together but I remember Aunt Eleanor as a sweet lady and a smile on her face. I was so glad to see her and Uncle Bob when they came out for Daddy's funeral. Facebook has allowed me to be in touch with so much of my family that are now adults. The healing process starts to become easier after the funeral and you really realize that she is no longer with us but in a beautiful place of love. May all of you start to feel her death as a blessing for her as now she does not have to be burdened with her earthly body and she has plenty of family to gather around her along with the most important person, our Heavenly Father.

“ I vividly remember many nights spent with you, Debbie, over the course of 13 years in school together, but one of my favorite memories is when your mom made Red Eye Gravy, it was the first time I ever had that. Her meals were always scrumptious! She was the epitome of a loving mom and wife, and she treated everyone with kindness. I'm so sorry for your family's loss, your matriarch of the Farris clan. May peace be with you. - Schelley Kerr Cassidy
